Mother Falls Unconscious.

My mother, who is 69 years old, has been troubled with her liver for 30 years. Doctors said she had gallstones. Several times she fell unconscious because of these attacks. Eight months ago I adored an advertisement of May's Wonderful Remedy in the Toledo Blade and purchased a bottle which did for a great amount of good. She continued the treatment and has felt entirely well since. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and relieves the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One does well convince or money refunded. A. A. Clarke and druggists everywhere.—Advertisement.

Some Spectacular Displays Saturday Night, Fayette Field

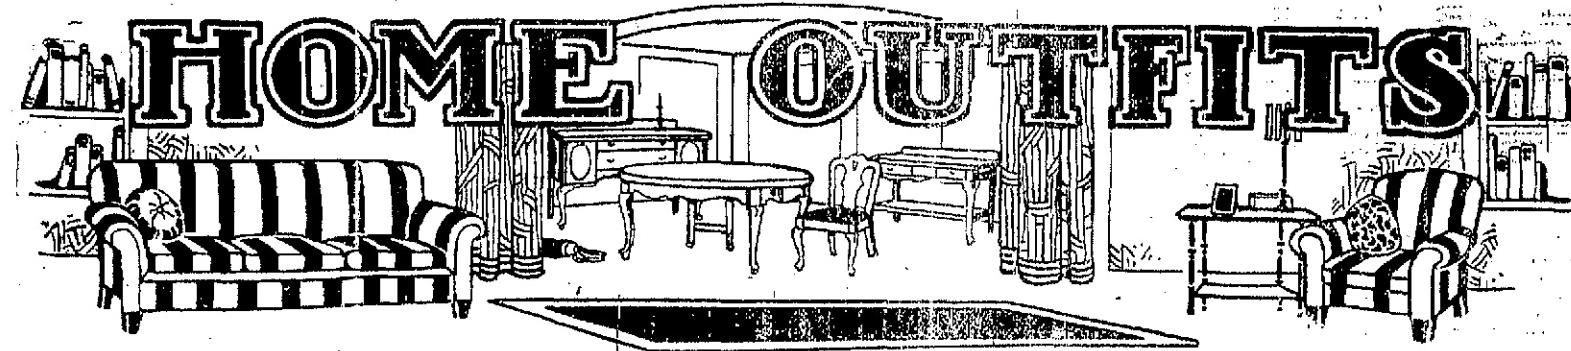

In looking about to find a place for the mammoth fire works exhibition Saturday night the management of the American-Italian Fireworks company was referred to Fayette Field, which place was immediately selected by the board of directors, not only because it appeared to be the best location, but also because the company wanted to give the people of Connellsville an opportunity to witness the latest fire works creations which have never been shown in this part of the country.

Some of the most spectacular events are the Garden of Allah, Niagara Falls, battle on the sea, sinking of the Lusitania, sieges of Verdun and many other new and spectacular features of wonderful effect.

There will be little admission at the gate to cover the extra expense of lumber cost of the field and

You Pay for the HOOSIER

Every Day You Do Without It

The cost of a Hoosier is as nothing compared to what this great kitchen convenience can do for you. It pays for itself over and over again because it saves steps, saves time, saves food, work and worry.

That's why there is no reason for any woman to go on doing her kitchen work the "old way"—especially when Hoosier is so easy to own.

Some things, but those who will attend will gladly pay the little extra, with friends at Bear Run Sunday.

SOPHOMORE ADVICE.

(Harrisburg Telegraph)

One of the faults of economists who have had no practical experience is that they know too many things that are not so. Here is Mr. W. Jetz Lauck, economist, asserting that the railroads could save millions of dollars by modernizing their locomotives. Mr. Donald Willard, who learned railroading by entering the service at the age of 18 years and rising almost every grade of position during a period of 10 years, submitted a very practical and conclusive answer to Lauck. He admitted that a saving of $10,000,000 a year could be effected on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad by modernizing the locomotives but to do the modernizing would cost $165,000,000. He estimated that a saving of $250,000,000 might be effected on all the railroads of the country by modernizing the locomotives but this would require an investment of $4,000,000,000 of new capital. He asserted and everyone will agree with him that it is not possible to secure the amount of capital that would be needed to modernize the locomotives.

Every newspaper publisher, every farmer, every manufacturer, every merchant, can set opportunities for reducing his costs of operation provided he can buy new and modern equipment. But it takes capital to buy new equipment hence many a printing shop is run with old equipment, every farmer uses out-of-date machinery and every factory gets along with appliances that are useless. We have no doubt that Mr. Lauck could visit almost any farm in the country and point out opportunities for savings. He would tell the farm owner of the immense loss resulting from having horses when a farm tractor could be bought for $2,000 of the money to grain that stands in the shock, waiting for the thresher to come when he could thresh promptly if he owned a threshing machine of his own, and of the saving in farm labor if he could tear down his old barns and erect new structures with modern appliances for handling hay, grain and other feeds. But Mr. Lauck would go broke trying to run a farm himself. He has apparently had the good sense not to try. He makes more money being an 'economist' for the railroad brotherhoods.

Just Folks.
Sister A. Gause.

GRASS AND CHILDREN.
I used to want a lovely lawn, a level patch of green. I have marveled many times at those that I have seen. And the home of youth and the home that I should keep. Peasaged a lawn of beauty, like a velvet carpet deep. But I have changed my mind since then—for then I didn't know that where the feet of children run, that grass can never grow.

Now I might own a lovely lawn but I should have to pay. To add the cost of care about. Go somewhere else to play. And I should have to stretch a wire about my garden space. And make the home where gladness reigns a more forbidding place. By some arrangement which is not ours to know. In time beyond the slightest doubt the tender grass would grow.

But oh! I want the children near and so I never say. When they are romping round the home. Go somewhere else to play. And though my lawn seems poorly kept and many a spot is bare, I'd rather see than growing grass the youngsters happy there. I've, but aside the dream I had in that far-off time, a playground than a place for grass to grow.

COKER INDEPENDENTS ARE PRIMED FOR THEIR CLASH WITH KIRLEYS SATURDAY

Local Outfit Will Be Representative of Coke Region in Line-up.

HERROD WILL BE TWIRLER

For the first time since they were organized the Connellsville Independents will put out the same team that played last week when they clash with the F. B. Kirley club of Pittsburgh Saturday afternoon. Never before did the locals have the same line-up from game to game. This season the club is being run on a more "busine-s-like basis" and the players evidently realize that it's a case of "winning or losing" on the job or some one else will get their berth.

With the same line up again, the Independents are bound to play "machine-like" ball, something the club has been trying to get out of the players since the beginning of the season. Shelly Hauser, who runs the team on the field denies the statement that the team is playing without any signals. Hauser says there is no truth in the story, and that every player who goes to bat is cuffed off what to do and if there are any runners on the bases, they are also told. Hauser added that his system of signals is so perfect they cannot easily be detected.

The independent players have been hammering the ball all over Fayette Field practicing for the traces with the Kirleys and they will undoubtedly play a bang up game. Herrod will take the rubber again Saturday. Jones will receive Stauffer the new warden, will be on the initial station with Moyer the new favorite on second. Fisher at short, Leiball at third. H. Fisher in left held Francis a riddle and Smitsky in right will complete the line up.

The game will be called promptly at 3:30 o'clock. The management wishes to again extend an invitation to all members of the fair sex. The club feels that if the women attend the games it will do much to encourage the team. There is no admission or women.

"DON'T NEGLECT YOUR WIFE"—satirizing Lewis Stone, is being shown today as the feature attraction and will also be repeated tomorrow. The heroine rebels against being only a pretty, petted wife. But when she stops at the revolt of the wife and leaves us with a picture of her leaving her husband's home, Mrs. Atherton follows through and shows how the woman's yearning to be recognized as a thinking human being wins the regard of a distinguished editor. The relations of the editor, the husband and the wife, become impossible in the social sphere in which they now in early San Francisco. At the husband's command the lover leaves town and buries himself with his tapes in the slums of New York. But his does not help the wife. When she learns of her soul mate's degeneration into a drunkard, she decides to follow him in spirit. A divorce follows. Later, she crosses the continent to share big self-shame and degradation. This is the spur that saves the man, for while he doesn't care about himself, he feels responsible for the woman.

THE PARAMOUNT

"THE KILLER"—An entertaining melodrama featuring an all-star cast is the leading attraction today and tomorrow. The story is woven around the diabolical personality of a man who finds killing in the best way of removing the birds, frogs, dogs, men, women and children who annoy him, then his displeasure, or stand in the way of his ambition, into his net with a beautiful girl and her young brother. Their position is hopeless until a daring and chivalrous young man makes headlong into the desperate situation, falls in love with the girl and rescues her in a succession of climaxes that are the very height of good melodrama.

THE ORPHEUM

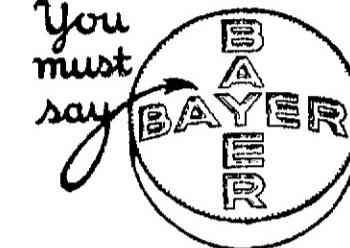

"MOONED HEARTS"—With "Bayer" on Genuine Aspirin—say "Bayer"

Conway Tearle in the leading role is the feature attraction today and tomorrow. The story in brief relates how a young and promising surgeon had his career practically ruined through a woman's caprice. Naturally this turned the man against women in general and the one in particular. Then he sees a way to rehabilitate himself in the eyes of his professional colleagues and the world at large by devoting himself to research work. One soon calls for the sinking of a 150-foot yacht. From a millionaire member of the Florida coast colony a boat was leased for two weeks at cost of $10,000. A technical director and corps were sent to Nassau where a counterpart of the yacht was built at a cost of $7,000.

Frederick's
THE HOUSE OF SERVICE

The Frederick Thrift Club is an influence for good

*its aim is earnest—
its spirit is honest*

The mere matter of money should not interfere

It is a fact, considering all things—that music under this Thrift Plan of easy payment, is one of the least expensive things you may buy. The outlay comes almost within "pin money" proportions—the average family would scarcely feel it.

Read the liberal prices and long terms quoted here. See the inducements offered in the way of privileges accorded to Club Members. Then figure out the money that slips through your fingers for non-essentials. Do this—and then ask yourself—am I not a bit negligent?

Just get into the spirit of the thing. Make up your mind that now—here—at last—by gosh—you are going to have a piano or a player-piano in your home—and nothing can stop you!

A little foresight is a good thing—too

Don't delay too long, there can be no time better than the present. Come in and make your application for membership—that is the first step. You will find yourself in good company—they are all doing it! This great thrift movement is thriving—prodigiously.

Freckle-Face

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots.

How to Remove Easily.

Here's a chance, Miss Freckle-face, to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable concern that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles; while it does give you a clear complexion the expense is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from any druggist and a few applications should show you how easily it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength Othine as this strength is sold under guarantees of money back if it fails to remove freckles.—Adv.

A Man for the Ages
A Story of the Builders of Democracy
By Irving Bacheller

Copyright Irving Bacheller

This is part of the entry which Samson made in his diary a week or so later.

"Harry put some wood on the fire while Abe and I led him up into the light. He was one of the dirty white men we had seen at the tavern.

"I'll give you four hundred dollars for a horse in good Michigan money," he said.

"If we can't steal a horse you're still to buy one," I says.

"No sir, I only come to buy," says he.

I stopped him suddenly and asked him who he was putting on the bridle.

"He owned us up then," said a man had hired him to steal the horses.

"That man has got to have a horse," he said. "He'll give me any price we want to ask—if you'll give me a few dollars I'll take it to him."

"You go and bring him here and I'll talk to him," I said.

"I let the fellow go. I didn't suppose he'd come back, but he did. Came a little before sunrise, with that well-dressed fellow we saw at the tavern."

"What's your name?" I says.

"He handed me a card on which I read the words: Lionel Davis, Real Estate Loans and Insurance, 14 South Water Street, Chicago, Ill.

"There's one branch of your business that isn't mentioned on the card I says.

"What's that?" says he.

"Horse thief," says I. "You sent that fellow here to steal a horse and he got caught."

"Well, I told him if he'd get me a good horse I'd give him five hundred dollars and that I didn't care how he got him. The fact is I'm desperate. I'll give you a thousand dollars for one of your horses."

"You couldn't buy one of em at any price," I said. "There's two reasons. I wouldn't do business with a horse-thief and no money would tempt me to sell an animal to be ridden to death."

The two thieves had had enough of us and they got out.

That night our party camped on the shore of the Kankakee and next day we met the contractors. Lincoln joined the latter party and Harry and Samson went on alone. Late that afternoon they crossed the nine-mile prairie beyond which they could see the shimmer of the lake and the subtle structures of the new city.

"There it is," said Samson. "Four thousand, one hundred and eight people live there. It looks like a sturdy two-year-old."

The houses were small and cheaply built and of many colors. Some were unpainted. Near the prairie they stood like people on the outer edge of a crowd looking over one another's shoulders and pushing in a disordered mass toward the center of interest. Some seemed to have struggled away as if they had given up trying to see or hear. So to one nearing it the town had a hoarse shelter look.

Our travelers passed rough hewed houses with grand-looking people in their doorways and on their small porches—men in broadcloth and tall hats and ladies in silk dresses. It was six o'clock and the men had come home to supper. As the horsemen rode along larger buildings surrounded them, mostly two stories high. There were some stores and houses built of red brick. Beyond the scatter of cheap wooden structures they came to streets well laid out and crowded and busy and very soft, to quote a phrase from the diary. Teams were still going in the mud, drivers shouting and lashing. Agents for hotels and boarding houses began to solicit the two horsemen from the pink sidewalks. The latter were deeply impressed by a negro in scarlet clothes riding a horse in scarlet harnesses. He carried a scarlet banner and was advertising in a loud voice the hour and place of great land sales that evening.

A sound of many hammers beating upon boards could be heard above the houses of the street and behind all was the constant drone of a big steam saw and the whine of the heavy stones in the new grist mill. It was the beginning of that amazing dispensation of industry which accompanied the building of the cities of the West.

They put out in the livery stable of the City hotel and at the desk of the latter asked about the price of board. It was three dollars a day and no politeness in the offer.

"It's pretty steep," said Samson. "But I'm too hungry for argument or delay and I guess we can stand it to be nabbed for a day or so."

The hotel clerk had a Register of the Residents of the City of Chicago wherein they found the name and address of John Kelso. They went out to find the house. Storekeepers tried to stop them as they passed along the street with offers of land at bargain prices which would make them millionaires in a week. In proceeding along the plank sidewalks they were often ascending or descending steps to another level.

On La Salle street they found the home of Jack Kelso. It was a rough hewed small house, a story and a half high. It had a little porch and doorway enclosed by an unpainted picket fence. Jim in a handsome blue silk gown came running out to meet them.

"If you don't mind I'm going to kiss you," she said to Harry.

"The mind if you didn't," said the young man as he embraced her.

"We must be careful not to get the habit," he laughed.

"To enjoy being careless for once," said Harry.
